I will be voting “Yes” on the 14th of October to support the Voice and have it enshrined into our Constitution because I know how it feels to be dispossessed and displaced from your own home as a result of colonisation. My experience as a criminal defence lawyer and the over-representation of our First Nations people in the Criminal Justice System and ongoing deaths of first nations in custody is the reality we cannot ignore as a nation and one step to make that right would be to vote “Yes” on the day. This passage from a Dinka Hymn during the 22 years old South Sudan/Sudan civil war sums up the Voice Referendum and why it is important to vote Yes.
